ABSTRACT

This bibliography from the New Zealand Council for Educational Research (NZCER) covers the period 1934-1984 and contains NZCER imprints; works by NZCER staff; and articles, papers, and other documents owing their intellectual or material origins to NZCER. It is organized into 22 broad types of readings which are then arranged by year of publication and then by author. The subject readings include: (1) child development; (2) curriculum and teaching methods; (3) documentation; (4) education (foreign countries); (5) education (New Zealand); (6) educational institutes; (7) history of education; (8) information systems and services; (9) Maori education, language, and culture; (10) philosophy of education; (11) planning and development of education; (12) policy and administration of education; (13) politics and economics of education; (14) post secondary; (15) pre-school education; (16) research policy and methodology; (17) sociology of education; (18) special education; (19) statutes and regulations; (20) teachers and teacher training; (21) testing and measurement; and (22) serial publications. The indexes are arranged by author and by keyword (ERIC-based) descriptors. (PN)

PREFACE

This bibliography was prepared to mark the 50th jubilee of the New Zealand Council for Educational Research. It lists documents of three kinds:

1. NZCER imprints.
2. Works by NZCER staff - both permanent and short-term, published by NZCER or by other agencies.
3. Articles, papers and other kinds of documents which owe their intellectual or material origins to NZCER. Typically, these are works produced by staff of other institutions during periods of residence at NZCER.

The period covered is 1934-1984, but items appearing after 1 November 1984 may not be included.

Records of minor NZCER works and of staff contributions to non-NZCER publications are scarce before the mid-1960s, and for this reason the pre-1960s coverage of documents in these two categories is unlikely to be comprehensive. Omissions in the post-1960s listings should, however, be few in number.

Examples of works in the third of our categories are uncommon before the late 1960s, which may have something to do with the documentation available for this period. It seemed important to include the publications of this type that came to our attention, but we have no idea if our coverage of this associated literature is comprehensive or even representative.

We have recorded all forms and variants of each document. Nearly all of the items deal with education or educational research, but we have not defined our subject matter narrowly, as careful readers will discover.

Organization of the hard copy posed the usual problem, and in the end we settled on twenty-two broad headings, some of which are more precise than others. Arrangement within the broad categories is by year of publication, and then by author. Allocation of items to these broad subject fields was sometimes something of an arbitrary decision, and entry by the descriptor index is the only certain way of identifying allied documents. The descriptors are ERIC terms, with some additions and modifications.

Carlene Grigg keyed-in the initial text file, which was then sorted and indexed by FAMULUS. With the advice and assistance of David Atmore a master copy was produced, using SCRIPT. This master was then duplicated in the usual way.

The information contained in this document has been retained in another form, in a computer database called HDOC (House DOCumentation). We hope to be able to maintain HDOC, and to use it as the source of any future hardcopy listings of NZCER publications.
